AWAITING THE RESULT.

The Two Leading Candidates Repair to Their Homes to Cast Their Ballots.

Mr. Blaine Receives an Enthusiastic Welcome in the Bay State—A Banquet in Boston.

Mr. Cleveland Cheered and Feted on His Arrival in Buffalo—Logan and Hendricks.

ON THE ANXIOUS SEAT.

BOSTON, Nov. 4.—Mr. and Mrs. Blaine, Mrs. M. A. Dodge (Gail Hamilton), Senator Hall and Postmaster Manley, of Augusta, who has been absent with Mr. Blaine during his entire trip, left New York yesterday morning at nine o'clock. At Springfield a short stop was made, where there was a very creditable reception. Fully 20,000 persons were on the streets through which the procession passed and in the public square where the stand was erected. Mr. Blaine was introduced by Colonel Metcalfe, of Springfield. He congratulated the people upon so large and demonstrative a manifestation of the Republican strength of Massachusetts. Being somewhat hoarse, Mr. Blaine excused himself from speaking further. He was followed briefly by Senator Hale, and on the conclusion of the latter's remarks the train moved out. Senator Hoar joined the party at this point. Short stops were made at Palmer, Natick and Newton. At the latter place Mr. Blaine was conducted to a temporary platform, and had just begun to address the audience, when with a crash, the entire forward part of the platform fell about four feet. A cry of alarm went up from the multitude. Several gentlemen caught Mr. Blaine, but he clung to the rail and needed no assistance. He at once climbed upon a detached portion of the framework, and, holding fast to an upright post, proceeded to briefly address the people. His few remarks were received with great cheering. He closed with the statement that he awaited the verdict without anxiety or fear.

The Blaine train arrived here at 5:20 p. m. The Boston & Albany depot was filled with an immense throng, and the candidate was greeted with prolonged cheers. Mr. Blaine only bowed his acknowledgments and was immediately driven to the Hotel Brunswick, a vast crowd speedily assembling there. At the hotel the crowd attempted to gain entrance, but were kept out by a squad of porters. At six o'clock Mr. Blaine and family were entertained at a grand banquet in the hotel, at which Henry Cabot Lodge, Chairman of the Republican State Committee, presided. Many of Mr. Blaine's most prominent supporters in New England were present, including Lieutenant-Governor Ames, Fred L. Ames, ex-collector Beard, Congressman W. A. Russell, Oakes Ames, Asa A. Potter, John Quincy Adams Brackett, ex-Congressman Candler, General Banks, Judge E. R. Hoar, Rev. C. A. Barton, Speaker Marden and Herman Atkins, of Vermont. The Blaine party at the dinner was made up of Mr. Blaine, Mrs. Blaine, Miss Blaine, Walker Blaine, Gail Hamilton, T. C. Crawford of the New York Tribune, and Postmaster Manley and wife, of Augusta. After dinner a brief reception was held in the hotel parlors, and at eight o'clock Mr. Blaine and party reviewed the great parade, postponed from last Friday night, from a platform constructed in front of the hotel.

Mr. Blaine will proceed to his home in Augusta, Me., this morning, where he will cast his vote for the straight Republican ticket.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 4.—Governor Cleveland arrived here yesterday morning accompanied by his friend, E. D. Tuthill, of the Tifft House, and Tuthill's nephew. The Governor declined the use of Tuthill's carriage and quietly strolled to his usual breakfasting restaurant, where, after partaking of a hearty meal, he repaired to his rooms over his office, and later, at about ten o'clock, was at his desk in his law office. It was expected the Governor would arrive in the afternoon, and preparations had been made to give him a reception. About eleven a. m. he left his office and strolled leisurely up to the Tifft House. He was attired in a handsome suit of black broadcloth, and appeared in the very best of health and in excellent spirits. He frequently stopped on the sidewalk to chat familiarly for a moment or two with some friends. An Associated Press reporter interviewed him, and, in answer to the question as to his health, he said: "I am in most excellent health and am more than pleased to be at my old home again." He stated that most cheering news came to him from most every quarter, and the prospects of the success of the Democratic ticket, he considered, were first rate. He will probably remain here until 4 o'clock to-day, and will vote at his old polling place, in the Ninth Ward, probably early in the morning.

Last evening Governor Cleveland went to the Academy of Music and sat through two acts of a play by the Florences. While there he was cheered heartily, the audience having recognized him. He was called from the Academy by friends and driven to the City Club, where the Buffalo Legion and a vast crowd awaited him. He addressed the Legion briefly, and after shaking hands with many of the people, he was driven to the rooms of the Buffalo Club, where an informal reception was held. Mr. Cleveland will vote the Democratic ticket straight to-day.

BEDFORD, Ind., Nov. 4.—General Logan completed his tour of Indiana at this place yesterday, and left for Chicago by the midnight train. He started from Indianapolis amid a drizzling rain, but by noon the weather cleared. The chief stopping-places were Franklin, Columbus, North Vernon, Mitchell and Bedford, the General making a short address at each city. At Mitchell a band of little girls, dressed in white and wearing hats with the inscription: "Soldier's Children," presented General Logan with a beautiful floral device, one of the children making a brief presentation speech. For the past three months General Logan has made from three to fifteen speeches six days a week.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 4.—Ex-Governor Hendricks arrived in this city yesterday to cast his vote at to-day's election. He expresses a belief that Indiana will give a good majority for the Democratic ticket.

President Arthur Will Vote in New York.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—The President left Washington yesterday afternoon at four o'clock for New York, where he will to-day cast his vote for the Republican Presidential Electors. He will return to Washington Thursday or Friday.

Loss of the Estado de Sonora.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Nov. 4.—The loss of the steamer Estado de Sonora off Lower California is confirmed. Pieces of wreckage brought to Mazatlan have been recognized. Several corpses have also been seen.

COAST DEFENSES.

Annual Report of General Newton—Important Recommendations, Estimates, Etc.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—General John Newton has submitted his annual report on the coast defenses. He earnestly urges that the harbors of our principal seaports be made impregnable to attack by the addition of guns of heavy caliber and other appliances known to modern warfare. The past events, he says, by no means justify the assertions made that our cotton and grain have become so necessary to the Nations that they could not engage in war with us for a short period without interruption of their supplies of these articles. It seems to be forgotten that a descent upon our coast to hold our unprotected cities under the guns of a hostile fleet would consume but a few months, and, in the meantime, cotton and grain in sufficient quantities might be obtained elsewhere. The modern system is to make war sudden, sharp and decisive, and to make the beaten party pay the expenses. The Board of Engineers for fortifications has prepared an approximate estimate of the cost of fortifications, including armaments, modern heavy guns and rifled mortars for Portland, Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Hampton Roads, New Orleans and San Francisco, and another estimate, likewise approximate, for preliminary work.

The total estimate, including armaments, is $53,488,000. The estimate for the implacement of guns, including armor, guns and machinery is $10,388,000. These estimates have been made with care, and it is believed the fortifications, including guns for all harbors on the coast of sufficient importance to tempt an enemy, can be prepared at a cost not to exceed $66,000,000.

The following estimates required for 1885 and 1886 are made: For the defense of Boston harbor, $880,000; New York harbor, $1,120,000; Philadelphia, $132,000; Baltimore, $132,000; Hampton Roads, $66,000; San Francisco, $900,000; modification of existing forts and batteries, $560,000; preservation of fortifications, $75,000; purchase of submarine mines, $300,000; casements, etc., $200,000; torpedoes, $60,000.

An Indian Who Wants to Vote.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—In the Supreme Court yesterday a decision was rendered in the case of John Elk, plaintiff in error, against Charles Wilkins. This suit, which was brought from the district of Nebraska, is brought by an Indian against the Registrar of one of the wards of the city of Omaha for refusing to register him as a qualified voter therein. The question to be decided was whether plaintiff is a citizen of the United States, and whether he has been denied his rights under the Fifteenth Amendment to the Constitution. Judge Gray delivered the opinion, which holds that an Indian born a member of one of the Indian tribes still recognized as a tribe by the Government, and who has voluntarily separated himself from his tribe and taken up his residence among white citizens in a State, but has not been naturalized, taxed or recognized as a citizen either by the United States or by the State, is not a citizen of the United States within the meaning of the Fourteenth Amendment.

Miners Resuming Work.

DENVER, Col., Nov. 4.—The conference meeting of the representatives of the striking coal-miners and the mine-owners was resumed in this city yesterday morning, and, as a result of the conciliatory measures there advanced, one thousand of the striking miners in the northern part of this State will go to work this morning. The operators appointed a committee of five, vested with full power, to treat with the miners and adjust all differences. This committee and the similar committee from the miners will select a Board of Consideration, to whom all differences in the future will be referred.

The Great Eastern.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 4.—Commissioner Pike, of the World's Exposition, has chartered the steamer Great Eastern for one year. She is to carry the exhibits from several points to this city free of charge to the owners of the consignments, and is afterward to be used as a floating hotel. The managers of the exhibition expect to fasten the big steamer to the levee, and to give entertainments and receptions on board every evening while the exhibition lasts. The Great Eastern is expected to sail from London during the last week of November.

Toronto Students Thrashed by the Police.

TORONTO, Canada, Nov. 4.—Medical and university students numbering three hundred, armed with sticks, marched the streets last night with the intention of thrashing the police. While passing along King street a dozen policemen rushed into the midst of them, and after a short encounter, during which clubs and stones were freely used, the students were completely routed and several arrests were made.

Death from Starvation.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Nov. 4.—A sad case of destitution and death was developed here yesterday. Some weeks ago one Johnson, with his eldest son, deserted his wife and four small children, leaving them in destitute circumstances and sick. This morning one of the children, a twelve-year-old boy, was found dead in bed, having perished of starvation and exposure. A younger brother was also nearly dead.

Annihilated the Family.

CLINTON, Ia., Nov. 4—Near Elwood, this county, Sunday forenoon Carl Whitmore, a farmer, attempted to drive across the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad in front of a freight train. His horses balked, and the locomotive struck and smashed the wagon and killed Mrs. Whitmore and their two children instantly. Whitmore himself is probably fatally hurt.

Bailed Out.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—William C. Rhinelander, who shot John Drake, was bailed out in the sum of $10,000 yesterday. His counsel are not prepared to say what his defense will be when the case is called to trial. They will be driven to the wall by the family on one issue—that of insanity—and will choose from the remaining lines of defense.

Extra Session of the Virginia Legislature.

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 4.—There being no quorum present, the Legislature adjourned until to-day. The adjournment from day to day will continue until the 7th, when the extra session ends and the extension recently agreed upon begins.

Explosion of a Still.

CHESTER, Pa., Nov. 4.—A still at the Chester Oil Works exploded yesterday, burning three men, two of them, Alex. Smith and Martin Ryan, probably fatally, and damaging the place by fire over $5,000.

AT REST.

Obsequies of the Late Sig. Brignoli—Many Prominet Musical People Present—Burial of the Late Mrs. Farragut.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—A band stationed in front of the Everett House yesterday played Beethoven's funeral march, while the body of the late Sig. Pasquale Brignoli, the well-known tenor, was born through the corridor on the shoulders of six porters and placed in a hearse. There was a crowd of people standing about the place. The remains were taken to St. Agnes' Church, where services were held. The church was draped in black. Bouquets, crosses and other floral emblems stood upon the steps of the altar and upon the lid of the coffin. Among those present were Mme. Ristori, Clara Louise Kellogg, Colonel Mapleson, Florence Rice Knox, P. S. Gilmore, Conte Le Rence, Zelle De Lussan, Thomas Bullock, Mrs. A. C. Bedun and Mrs. Lewes, of Philadelphia. The pall-bearers were Frank Chickering, Charles A. Chizzola, Sig. Ciccone, Sig. Brezier, Max Maretzek and Prof. Albites. Rev. Father Bigley was the celebrant of the mass, the music being sung by the choir of the church. The "Kyrie" and "Requiem" were from Delfico's mass. The closing hymn, "The Last Greeting," by Schubert, was sung by Clara Louise Kellogg amid tears and sobs. The burial was at the Marble Cemetery.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—The funeral of Virginia Loyall Farragut, widow of Admiral Farragut, who died on Friday, took place yesterday from the Church of the Incarnation. Among the pall-bearers were D. O. Mills, Chief Justice Daly, Commodore Young and Admirals Rhind, Smith and Nicholson. Among those present in the church were General Ulysses S. Grant and wife, Hon. William M. Evarts and wife, General Martin T. MacMahon and Admiral Porter. The body was interred in Woodlawn Cemetery.

THE MORNING STAR.

Sailing of the New Missionary Ship from Boston for Service in the Pacific.

BOSTON, Nov. 4.—The beautiful barkentine Morning Star dropped down the bay yesterday afternoon, and departed on her mission of evangelization. Her first port will, according to Captain Bray's plan, be Honolulu. During their stay here the vessel has been visited by thousands of people, who viewed with the pride of ownership her elegant proportions and her comfortable interior, and who now follow her with their prayers. The Morning Star carried many gifts, one of which is a large life-boat, which is to be schooner-rigged and to be used in emergencies. It is the gift of eighteen young men of the Park Street Sabbath School, and its cost was defrayed largely by the proceeds of two concerts organized by them. The intention was to sail October 27, but the local inspectors refused to give a certificate because the boiler sheathing is brick instead of iron, and delay was made until the supervising inspector for the district was persuaded to grant a conditional certificate. This he did on the ground that the vessel was never to return to the Atlantic Ocean.

A Fatal Fire.

HUNTINGDON, Pa., Nov. 4.—A dwelling-house belonging to the Pennsylvania Canal Company, two miles west of this city, occupied by James Holt and George Rogers and their families, the former having a wife and four small children, and the latter a wife and three children, was burned yesterday morning at one o'clock. The fire originated in the lower story, immediately beneath the occupants, who were at the time in bed. Before they were awakened by the fire the usual means of egress were cutoff, and they were obliged to escape through the upper windows. Holt threw out a chaff-bed and then threw his wife and children out upon it. Rogers assisted his wife to a short ladder which leaned against the house, and before she reached it the fire burst out of the side of the building, and burned her hair and clothes off. He then threw his children from the second-story window, and followed himself by jumping. The house, together with its contents, was totally destroyed, and the escaping inmates were all seriously injured—the children of Holt fatally.

Made an Assignment.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 4.—James Davis, of Pawtucket, a tanner, yesterday made an assignment to Olney Arnold and William P. Bosworth. Mr. Davis became involved about ten years ago to the extent of more than $170,000 by indorsing paper. For several years he has managed not only to meet a large amount of interest but to reduce the principal. For the past two years business has been dull, and he was forced to succumb to the heavy load. His estimated liabilities are $150,000. On this it is said but $20,000 is on account of his business, the remainder being on old paper, mainly held by banks. It is thought the assets will nearly equal the liabilities.

Four Years for a Utah Polygamist.

SALT LAKE, Utah, Nov. 4.—Judge Zane yesterday sentenced Rudger Clawson, convicted a week ago of polygamy, to four years in the penitentiary and eight hundred dollars fine. An appeal was taken, pending which the prisoner's counsel moved that he be released on bail, which was refused. Clawson was remanded to the custody of the United States Marshal.

Beaten to Death.

ABILENE, Kan., Nov. 4.—Henry Pigorsch, a German farmer of this county, was killed Sunday by John Sweeney, a railroad laborer. Sweeney and others were hunting on Pigorsch's farm. Pigorsch came out with a gun and warned them off, but Sweeney wrestled the gun from Pigorsch and beat him to death with it. Officers are in pursuit of the murderer.

The Baltimore and Ohio's Limited.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—The Baltimore & Ohio is preparing to run a limited express train between Baltimore or Washington and Chicago, which will make faster time than any other road, and the fare will be but $12 between those points. This would make the fare from New York about $18. The Pennsylvania Road asks $28 now for similar accommodations.

Shot by a Playmate.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Nov. 4.—At Downs Station, ten miles from Bloomington, George Bethel, aged twelve, son of a prominent citizen, was accidentally shot and instantly killed Sunday evening by his playmate, a lad named Lou Mason, while the latter was attempting to shoot a dog.

Comical Side of the Canvass.

WHEELING, W. Va., Nov. 4.—Two thousand persons of all shades of politics indulged in a Belva Lockwood parade Monday night in this city. The paraders wore poke bonnets, Mother Hubbards, and carried brooms.

OTHER FOREIGN INTELLIGENCE.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—The Times' Alexandria correspondent states that upon careful inquiry he learns that the report of the fall of Khartoum originated from the following source, and gives it for what it is worth: A French merchant, formerly French Consul at Khartoum, learned from messengers who lately arrived from Khartoum that General Gordon was in want of provisions and made a sortie. He reached Berber only. Colonel Stewart was able to push farther north, and General Gordon started to return to Khartoum, and when near Shendy he learned that Khartoum had been handed over to the rebels. General Gordon found himself unable to retire or advance and was killed there.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—The rumor that the Khedive had sent a telegram to the Government announcing the fall of Khartoum and the capture of General Gordon has been authoritatively denied and the denial published.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—In the House of Commons yesterday Leonard H. Courtney, Secretary of the Treasury, announced that Hon. L. S. Sackville West, British Minister at Washington, had been appointed Special Commissioner to the New Orleans Exposition, and the British Consul at New Orleans had been appointed Local Commissioner.

In the House of Lords, yesterday, Lord Granville, Foreign Secretary, said the Government had no reason to believe that the report of the fall of Khartoum and the capture of General Gordon was true.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—The Irish members of the House are infuriated at the decision of the Government to sustain Lord Spencer. It is safe to say now that there is war to the knife between the Home-Rulers and the Government. Mr. Thomas Sexton, member of Parliament for County Sligo, tonight moved a new amendment to the address in reply to the Queen's speech. He fiercely assailed Mr. Bolton and charged that he had been conclusively proven guilty of all the contemptible acts of which he had been accused. George Bolton, he said, had been guilty of the most flagrant acts in packing juries in Ireland to prevent condemnation for crime. If Bolton were to be retained by the Government as the Crown representative in Dublin in the cases in which he was so deeply involved, it was time to say good-bye to fair trials in Ireland, and Mr. Sexton implored God to spare the innocent.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—The bronze statue of Garfield, executed by Prof. Lenze, of Nuremberg, on an order from San Francisco, is completed, and has been placed on exhibition at Hamburg. It is of heroic size, the figure being ten feet high. It represents the late President standing erect, with his head uncovered, and clothed in ordinary civilian dress. On the sides of the pedestal are the figures representing war trophies and the American eagle. The front face of the pedestal bears in large raised letters the name "Garfield." The model of the statue was made by Herr Happersburger, a sculptor now residing in Munich, who is a native of America. The statue will soon be shipped to San Francisco.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—The Times yesterday devoted its leader to the political contest in America, in the course of which it says: Although the number of votes polled to-morrow will probably exceed those polled at any previous contest, nevertheless it would be rash to say that the vast majority of Americans regard the issue with indifference. Foreigners have still less reason to feel a keen interest in it. The campaign has been almost exclusively managed by experienced and adroit professional politicians. To them alone the result will bring exultation or disappointment. The most satisfactory feature of the whole campaign is the failure of all attempts to revive for party purposes the sectional jealousies of the North and South.

HAVANA, Nov. 4.—Porto Rico papers report large waves observed in several parts of the island during the recent cyclone. In Arecibo thirty-two houses inhabited by poor people were destroyed. Water entered the stores, but did little damage. A schooner was cast ashore. The cyclone was felt severely in Nuevitas. The city was inundated in a few hours, causing some damage. Water at the railway station rose twenty-five centimeters above the passenger stairs. The telegraph station was struck by lightning and destroyed.

LIMA, Nov. 4.—Caceres' infantry battalion at Cuzco mutinied recently. The uprising was suppressed by cavalry, and five officers and twenty soldiers were shot.

MADRID, Nov. 4.—The towns of Myas and Alicante are inundated. The flood did great damage to property. Several lives were lost.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—The Atlantic steamship companies are endeavoring to agree upon a raise in the passenger tariff between Europe and the United States.

PARIS, Nov. 4.—During the past twenty-four hours five deaths from cholera have occurred at Nantes.

Three deaths by cholera have occurred at Oran and ten at Nantes since midnight Sunday. One case is reported at Paimbeuf.

Fifty-three hundred troops to reinforce the French army in Touquin will start on or before the 15th instant. A second detachment will also start a fortnight later.

BERLIN, Nov. 4.—The eight Anarchists charged with blowing up the Niederwald monument have been removed from prison at Elberfeld to the prison at Leipsic. A plot has been discovered to force the prison at Elberfeld and release the culprits. Several arrests were also made of persons implicated in the plot.

ROME, Nov. 4.—The Osservatore Romano publishes a cable dispatch from Bishop O'Farrell, of Trenton, N. J., to the Pope, saying: "The words attributed to me are utterly false."

BRUSSELS, Nov. 4.—The Patriote says King Leopold was attacked Saturday with a nervous disorder. His health is much shattered by anxiety arising from the political crisis.

Fatal Powder Explosion.

KINGSTON, Ont., Nov. 4.—By a premature explosion of gunpowder at Bedford Station on Saturday afternoon, John McCrimmon was killed and Alpheus Brown had his jaw broken in two places, an eye put out and his hands fearfully mangled.

Trying to Beat Weston's Record.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—Noremac begun yesterday in Midlothian Hall his effort to beat Weston's record of five thousand miles in one hundred days.

"Bill" Jones Set Free.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—In the Criminal Court yesterday the case of William Jones, indicted for assault and battery with intent to kill Charles J. Guiteau on the 19th of November, 1881, was tried. After an absence of twenty minutes the jury found a verdict of "not guilty."

Jones is the man who fired at Guiteau while he was being conveyed from the court-room to the jail during the assassin's trial for the murder of President Garfield. Jones rode up to the side of the prison-van on horseback and fired into it. This was November 19, 1881.

Settlers Flocking to Kansas.

WICHITA, Kan., Nov. 4.—Forty-one emigrant wagons headed for Southwestern Kansas passed through this city Sunday. They were from Eastern Kansas and Missouri. The greater portion of them appeared to be in good circumstances. They were about equally divided as to their destination between Pratt, Comanche and Edwards Counties. There is a ceaseless flow of settlers to these counties, and towns are springing up as if by magic.

Wife Murder in Texas.

HOUSTON, Tex., Nov. 4.—Henry Fox, who deserted his wife two weeks ago, came back Sunday night and tried to get into her cottage. She refused to admit him and he went away. He came back with a heavy piece of lumber, broke the door in, and fatally stabbed his wife with a butcher-knife. She died instantly. He escaped.

Officials Going Home to Vote.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 4.—The usual exodus of Government officials and employes who go home to vote began last week, and, as a natural consequence, quite a thinning out is noticeable in the departments. They have gone in numbers—probably 5,000 or 6,000—from heads of departments to department laborers.

A Valuable Find.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Nov. 4.—On the farm of John Snyder, six miles from South Schenectady, a large deposit of steel-molding sand has been discovered. Experts pronounce it the finest in the United States. The supply is almost inexhaustible. A large steel manufacturing house in the East has ordered a large quantity of the sand.

Bloodshed in the South.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Nov. 4.—Reports have reached this city that a terrible riot occurred between whites and blacks in Seneca City, S. C., on the Air Line Road. One rumor places the number of killed at twenty. It will be late before details can be received as to the correctness of the report.

BUTTER FIFTY YEARS OLD.

The Strange Find Made by Farmer McChesney in His Well.

GUILDERLAND STATION, N. Y., Nov. 4.—Fifty years ago the Jupp family, famous Hudson Valley butter-makers of that day, occupied the farm now belonging to Charles McChesney, near this station. Mrs. Jupp's butter was always packed in peculiarly-shaped earthen crocks, and commanded a high price in the Albany and other markets. Before sending a crock of butter to Albany it was her custom to lower it into a well on the premises which was noted for its very cold water. Mrs. Jupp would leave the butter hanging in the water for several hours, and when taken out it would be as hard and cold as ice. One day in 1834 she was lowering a crock of water into the well when the rope broke, and the crock fell to the bottom. No effort was ever made to recover it. For the first time in its history this well became almost dry during the recent long drought in this vicinity. A few days ago Farmer McChesney was cleaning the well out, when he found the crock Mrs. Jupp had lost fifty years ago. In taking the crock from the well McChesney accidently broke it. It was about one-quarter full of butter, which was as solid and sweet as it was the day it was put down half a century ago. The crock and its contents are on exhibition at the McChesney farm, and hundreds have called to see them.

Still Cutting Rates.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—The General Passenger Agent of the West Shore Road has just issued a formal order to agents to sell tickets to Chicago first-class over the counters at $12. The New York Central has just announced the following reductions: St. Louis, $16, a reduction of $3; Indianapolis, $15.50, a reduction of $1.50; Cincinnati, $13.50, a reduction of $1.50; Detroit, $10.50, a reduction of one dollar; Toledo, $12.25, a reduction of one dollar. No further reduction to Chicago has been made. The Erie has met the West Shore rates of $12 first-class, and $11 second-class to Chicago. The Lackawanna will follow suit. Central officials say they expect to do so soon, as they feel satisfied that the above are actual rates.

A Mystery.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Nov. 4.—In the Lutheran Cemetery on Saturday afternoon, a gentleman found a three-year-old English girl, with a handkerchief tied tightly around her neck, her face being nearly purple. When able to converse, she gave her name as Lizzie Engleman, and said she had been on a big ship with her parents.

Shot Dead by Roughs.

GREENSBURG, Ind., Nov. 4.—During a torchlight parade Saturday night a gang of pickpockets attempted to rob David Baker, a young man from the country. Baker fired upon them from a revolver, whereupon one of the roughs shot him in the breast killing him. The murderers are unknown.

A Relic of Early Colonial Days.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Nov. 4.—Men digging trenches for sewers here have found at a depth of sixteen feet the old corduroy road which was laid in 1690, and led to the fort at the time of the massacre by the Indians. On another street the hollow logs which were laid in 1806, and served for pipes for the city's water supply, have been found in an excellent state.

Must Pay the Taxes.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Nov. 4.—Because of an alleged flaw in the tax law, certain citizens prayed an injunction to restrain their collection. Vice Chancellor Simrall denied the request Monday, thus making necessary the payment of about $100,000,000.

THE REVIEW.

JACK & MIZE, Proprietors.

THE ELECTION.

IN DECATUR.

The election in this city passed off with much more credit to those in charge than usual. There was a large vote polled, and generally the best of feeling prevailed. There were about the usual number of workers, but they were generally volunteers, and not paid strikers. Many of our best citizens were present all day. There were a few instances of bulldozing in the 4th ward, but voters are generally readers and naturally more independent. Men that were "fixed," had it done generally away from the polls, and came with their tickets in their pockets. Unusual care was taken in the location of unregistered voters. The county officials had furnished but one form of blank, that for a voter who has been challenged. A non-registered voter must locate his residence by number and street, also by the oath of a registered voter and householder of the election precinct. There has, in the past, been too much looseness in the matter of swearing in voters. It is high time that an improvement was made. It was not perfect in Decatur, by any means but it was nearer so than usual this time. The result was a disappointment to many, but there were a corresponding number of fellows to rejoice.

MACON COUNTY.

The returns from the different townships of the county outside of Decatur are meagre, owing to the great length of the ticket to be counted. They, however, generally show democratic gains. In Decatur the republicans gain four votes on the head of the ticket, while in the other parts of the county, the democratic gains over the vote of 1880, on the head of the ticket, are upwards of 100 votes, and may reach 150. The republican county ticket is doubtless elected, except the coroner, where the indications are that Peter Perl will come out victorious.

IN THE STATE.

The indications are that Blaine has carried the electoral vote by a largely increased majority, while the election of governor is in doubt.

Byrne

IN THE NATION,

The returns plainly indicate the election of Cleveland and Hendricks. Remembering the wrongs of 1876, this is plainly the Lord coming to his own again.

There are a few colored men in the city who are catching Hail Columbia for voting the democratic ticket. They will learn by and by where their true friends are.

Thanks to the Republican for printing the Review yesterday morning. We fight like fury politically, but know how to accommodate one another in case of a breakdown.

The Quincy Herald is for sale. It has a connection with the Northwestern Associated Press, and is recognized as one of the old and well established papers of the west.

The republicans cry fraud about Chicago. With several hundred U. S. deputy marshals appointed by "Long" Jones, there was not much danger of the rights of republicans suffering.

Now that election is over, what great question will agitate the minds of the citizens of Decatur? Will it be the merits of the chemical engine, or the probable candidates for Mayor and aldermen next spring.

The action of Judge Treat, of St. Louis, in refusing to confirm the appointment of a horde of deputy marshals for that city was a creditable judicial act. The care of elections can be safely left to the local authorities.

The old square will be improved according to plans prepared by I. Baldwin. It is proposed to have an inner circle as a grass plot, with the tracks of the street railways running around it. The remaining portion will be paved with brick such as is used for this purpose in Bloomington.

Excursion to Tennessee, Mississippi, Arkansas and Texas.

The Illinois Central railroad will run an excursion to the above named points: Leaving Decatur at 5 p. m., November 18, 1884. Return tickets good for 30 days, Stop-overs granted at points south of, and including, Cairo, Illinois. To accommodate passengers for New Orleans, Jennings, and Florida points, we will run through coaches and sleeping cars from Sioux City. Applications for sleeping car berths, excursion bills, and emigration book, entitled "To Northern Seekers for Southern Homes," should be made to the undersigned at Manchester, Iowa.

LINCOLN---DOUGLAS.

Physical and Intellectual Contrast Between the Two Great Men.

Douglas, Short and Plump—Lincoln, Tall and Angular—The Tribute Each Paid to the Other—Their Canvass.

[John H. Harmon's "Recollections."]

There was a great contrast between the two men. Douglas was short of stature, but plump of build. His face was rather broad and his head large, with a shock of black hair rising straight up from his high forehead. As was the fashion then he wore his hair rather long, and it spread away over his ears without much sign of parting. A smooth-shaved face tended to give him a youthful appearance, except for the deep lines about the forehead, eyebrows, upper lip and mouth. His voice was deep and sonorous and a delight to all listeners. He was graceful in movement and gesture and deserved the reputation of being one of the most pleasing orators of his time. He was impassioned in his delivery, and walked up and down the platform in a demonstrative manner. He made great efforts to enforce the principle of local self-government.

Lincoln, in appearance, was quite the opposite of Douglas. He was very tall, very angular, ungainly in his motions and attitude; with a thin face, deeply furrowed, and a voice not unpleasant, but sounding harsh to the ears that had just listened to Douglas. While the latter always moved about when speaking, Lincoln stood in one place. He dwelt on the inhumanity of the fugitive slave law. Of course Douglas had to defend it as a part of the compromise and also as lawful carrying out of the provisions of the constitution. The Dred Scott decision, giving the opinion of the supreme court, was much debated, but there was no way of gainsaying it, if the duty of the states to each other to carry out the compact made at the forming of the constitution was conceded. However, the conscience of the people was against the return of fugitive slaves, and the right in this matter was an influence powerful enough to override laws, decisions and constitutional compacts.

Douglas was, in all respects, the more powerful debater, but obviously not on the popular side of the question. Lincoln had an advantage in his ability to revive the drooping interest of his audience by stories, which he told in an inimitable manner. When Douglas was speaking the faces of the Democrats in the audience were sufficiently broad to look pleasant, but when Lincoln's turn came they lengthened out considerably, and it was not difficult to distinguish the partisans of each of the great men who addressed enormous crowds from the same platform.

The success of Douglas was owing to pure force of intellect. Though Lincoln never lost his audience fire, Douglas' presentation of his views of the question made some votes and retained those wavering and ready to go over to the other side. He told me as we journeyed to the first meeting that few in the United States realized the kind of man he had to meet, his wonderful power over an audience, or his great mental abilities. I had previously seen Lincoln when he was a representative in congress, but he cut no figure in the house, appeared to be out of his element, and made few acquaintances in Washington. Douglas reintroduced me to him just before the meeting, where both were to speak. They were good friends, and before Lincoln took his seat as president the patriotic Douglas had tendered him his help and influence—no small thing at that crisis. This was fully appreciated, and the president was prepared to make his old antagonist lieutenant-general in the army. Douglas would not accept the position. He was was not fitted by training for a military career, and his habits of life at the time were not adapted to it. The proposed appointment was largely a political move, but nevertheless creditable to both men, each fully sympathizing with the other.

Detection of Smugglers' Tricks.

[New York Cor. Cincinnati Enquirer.]

Every method of evading the duties has been tried, the last being the use of soap. No doubt this article had previously afforded concealment, but it will hardly be tried again. The fact that Graves' cake of soap contained $10,000 worth of diamonds will be a precaution in the future against any similar attempt. It is supposed that Graves cut the soap in layers, and, placing the diamonds inside, pressed the layers together, at the same time subjecting the mass to sufficient heat to render it solid. The cake was then smoothed off, and, being rolled up in a towel along with hair-brush and other articles of toilet, had a very innocent appearance. It, indeed, would have passed had it not been for suspicion previously aroused. Graves was a well-known diamond importer, and felt clear get proverbial smugglers. He wanted to save $1,000 in duties, and he has lost $12,000 worth of diamonds. It is not probable that he will ever try it again.

The false trunk bottom did well for a while, but it is now so easily detected that no one really thinks of respecting it. An inspector knows at a glance whether the trunk is as deep inside as outside, and, if he is in doubt, a yard-stick soon settles the question. Another method was to wind laces around the body so that the increased bulk might pass for corpulence, but this, too, has become so well known that detection seems inevitable. Cigar smuggling was practiced by inserting them in water-proof bags and dropping them overboard, a boat being near to pick them up, but the harbor police soon put a stop to that.

The increased espionage gradually reduced smuggling to laces and jewelry, and the ingenuity with which these have been "run" might reasonably excite surprise. Diamonds have been found concealed in a lady's hair. The bowl of a meerschaum pipe, with its cover down, and a little tobacco inside, can contain $500 worth of diamonds. The heels of a pair of boots can be used for the same purpose, and the cavity can be made large enough to contain a first-class diamond. A false-bottomed watch (one that has a face and no works) may be used for the same purpose, and many other methods might be mentioned; but the ingenuity of the custom-house detectives has penetrated one fraud after another, the last being Graves' cake of soap, which has created a marked sensation. The result of this vigilance is shown in the increased amount of duty on precious stones. It pays to guard the revenue in the closest possible manner.

Revival of Point Lace.

[Foreign Letter.]

Queen Margherita of Italy is making an effort to revive the making of Venetian point lace. She has established a school, from which the graduates go out to teach to others the mysteries of the craft. Already there are 4,000 pupils, all at work, and thirty-four varieties of points are turned out. Only by the color, it is said, may the new product be distinguished from the antique lace.

Boston Transcript: No, my son, people do not argue to get at the truth of a matter. They simply wish to make converts to their own side, though they have to lie to do it.

"DE MORTUIS."

[Blackwood's Magazine.]

Oh come let us haste to his grave, let us scatter rich garlands of flowers!
We gave him scant honor while living, faint,
reticent praises were ours
For his genius, his virtues his courage—but now his quick spirit hath fled;
O'er his tomb wreathes of roses and laurels
and bays let us strew to him dead.
Ay, now, when all wooping and praising are utterly vain, let us weep!
Let us praise him ungrudgingly now that,
unconscious, he sleeps his last sleep.

Will he head what we say? Will he hear us and see us? Ah no! 'tis too late!
We are always too late with our praises and
pæans—delaying we wait,
Till death shrouds the windows and darkens life's warm breathing house with its pall,
And in vain to the tenant departed, love,
friendship, or calumny call.
Ah then we arouse in our griefs, ah then,
and then only, the need
That was due to the warm living spirit, we give to the cold senseless dead.

For our brother while here is striving and moving along the world's ways,
We have only harsh judgments, stern counsel, half-uttered affections, cold praise.
Our cheer of full-hearted approval, our frank, quick applause we deny;
Envy, malice and jealousy, calumny, all the world's hounds in full cry
Unrelenting pursue him—while friendship barks low in the rear of the race.
Reinstate, perhaps, at his faults and his frailties till death ends the chase.

Ah then all his virtues, his merits shine forth,
all the charms that he owned,
Rise up unobscured in their beauty, all frailties and faults are shrouded.
All the good is remembered and pondered,
the bad swept away out of sight,
And in death we behold him transfigured,
and robed in memorial light.
We lament when lamenting is useless, we praise when all praises are vain,
And then, turning back sad forgetting, begin the same sad work again.

Ah! why did we stint to him living our gift!
Were we poor? Had we naught—
Not a wreath, not a flower for our friend to whose grave we such tribute have brought?
Ah, not the largess of the heart that had strengthened and gladdened his soul
We refused him, and proffered him only the critic's poor, miserly dole.
Still we meant to be just, so we claim, though the judgment was cold that we gave.
Was our justice, then, better than love?—
Come, say! as you stand by his grave.

THE CITY OF BROTHERLY LOVE

The Ways of Philadelphians a Hundred Years Ago.

["Cresa" in The Enquirer.]

Philadelphia is a city of many peculiarities, and naturally of some amusing inconsistencies. A hundred years ago, notwithstanding the strong Quaker element, the city was renowned for it luxurious style of living, its fondness for every sort of amusement, and its laxity of morals.

Lee described it as an "extensive scene of amusement and debauch." Laval said it was "a place of crucifying expenses," and McMasters in his admirable history gives a most entertaining sketch of the town, which he says was then the greatest in the country. No other could boast of so many houses and so many people, so much renown. No other city was so rich, so extravagant, so fashionable. To travelers from distant lands the most striking features were the fineness of the houses, the goodness of the pavements, the filthiness of the carriage-ways, the regular arrangement of the streets, and the singular custom of numbering rooms and giving to others the names of forest trees.

Chestnut street was then, as it is now, the fashionable walk, and it was there that the man of fashion promenaded in his three-cornered cocked hat, his powdered hair and marvelous combination of small clothes, long coat, striped stockings, embroidered vest and pointed shoes. Those, too, were the days of gorgeous brocades and enormous hoops, of tower-built hats and high wooden heels, and we are told when a stately dame in fashionable attire encountered one of these courtly gallants, what between his salutations, which comprised a flourish of the cane, a scrape of the foot and a profound inclination and her responding courtesy, almost to the ground, an entire section of the sidewalk was taken up.

Etiquette was severe. At assemblies and dancing parties partners were chosen by lot, and were partners for the evening. Even in the matter of refreshments good manners demanded that a guest should accept four or five servings of a dish if asked to, and then was at liberty by an arrangement of his knife and fork to tacitly intimate that his capacity was exhausted. So ferreigners this table etiquette was very puzzling.

It was told of the Prince de Broglie that when dining at the house of Robert Morris he was so repeatedly urged to have his cup refilled that he consented even unto the twelfth time, when his neighbor, secing that the noble Frenchman was fast approaching the condition of the old women at the fishing tea party, whispered to him to place his spoon across the top of his cup, or his hostess would go on urging him to the crack of doom.

As to art, even at the dawn of the present century, when seats from the theatre stalls of the Louvre were exhibited in the Academy of Fine Arts in the one day of the week set apart for the visits of women the nude figures were inclosed in cotton sacks. When Pine, the artist, brought over a copy of the Venus de Medici, so lend were the cries of shame that he was obliged to keep it in a private closet.

The Early Nuremberg Press.

[Cor. New York Independent.]

On a table there lie some old books of the early Nuremberg press. The print is perfect. The paper, patiently hand-made, came out of vats which were never filled with aught else than flax fiber from the Bavarian plains. The binding is of deeply-pressed parchment, bearing still the arabesque reliefs of some now forgotten but honest and tasteful binder, who had more sense and conscience than to trim down your margins to murderous nearness to the text. Here is a book whose margins were never touched by the knife of the binder. Then the brass clasps and heavy corners are still in good shape, just enough indented to remind you of the jars and rubs that will come to even the best of books, as to men. If you rub away the green dust you will still see the beautiful designs, in all their delicate lines, of the brass worker of the old days.

Just beside this volume there is a folio copy of the one early Nuremberg Bible, full of Holbein's wood cuts. It is a grand tome. Nowhere can one be better convinced than right here in Nuremberg that the two arts of printing and binding sprang into perfection, like Minerva from Jove's brain, at their very birth.

A Chinese Duel.

[Chicago Herald.]

Two Chinamen in Mercer county, California, who had agreed to fight a duel to settle some difficulty, worked together all one forenoon to build a coffin. After completing their work they met, armed with revolvers, in a field, and one blew the head of the other off. The neighbors who had seen them make the coffin then knew what it was for.

Thomas Halleck, a wealthy citizen of Peoria, died the other day from the effects of a dose of "cartar emetics" which he took for Rochelle salts. He sent his little girl to the drug store for the latter medicine, but the druggist was busy and told his store boy to wait on the little girl, pointing to the bottle containing the medicine. The boy made the mistake which proved fatal, as above stated.

A grand excursion to California, via. New Orleans and the "World's Exposition," will leave Chicago over the Illinois Central R. R., about December 1st—the exact date will be announced in a few days. This is an overland tour of unparalleled interest and attraction. For full particulars apply to A. H. Hanson, General Passenger Agent, I. C. R. R., Chicago, or Geo. W. Sale to commence at 10 o'clock a. m.

There will be a grand exhibition of fancy and acrobatic roller skating at the tabernacle on Thursday evening of the present week, at which Messrs Boynton and Gentry, the acknowledged "champions of the east," will appear in one hundred and forty graceful and difficult feats and movements, including handsprings, somersaults, etc, on the rollers. A full band of music has been engaged for the occasion, and it is intended to be the greatest and grandest roller skating carnival of the season. Messrs. Boynton and Gentry will give instructions, free of charge, to any persons wishing to learn the art of roller skating.

The sisters in charge of St. Mary's hospital desire us to state that they will call upon our citizens for aid for their excellently conducted and eminently worthy institution this week. We hope they will be kindly received and liberally treated. There are now twenty eight persons in the hospital and the amount of good the sisters have accomplished through its agency in the past year is uncalculable. It is a credit to our city, and in a pecuniary point of view is entitled to consideration, in that it is economically conducted, and its benefits extended to many who would otherwise become a charge upon the county There is a debt of about $4,000 on the building and grounds, and the hospital is in need of additional furniture. "The Lord loveth a cheerful giver."

Leave orders for coal and wood at Neidermeyer's grocery store. o24tf

A Pleasant Surprise

The friends of Mrs. Sarah Proctors who has just returned from Kentucky, gave her a pleasant surprise at the residence of her brother, J. R. Miller, last night. She has been absent about one year, and returned yesterday. There were about twenty persons present, who passed an enjoyable evening.

Rev. H. W. Trueblood, presiding elder of the United Brethren church for the Bloomington district, has returned from a visit to Streator and other points in his district, after an absence of some ten days. He continues to reside in Decatur, and has no intention of removing his family to Bloomington, as has been erroneously reported.

J. H. Brooks, an energetic gentleman, in advance of a "Wife's Honor" company, made us a pleasant call last evening. The company is playing at St, Louis this week and will be here on Monday evening. In the west the play has proven immensely popular. Mr. Brooks assures us that the play will surely please all who witness it.

DEMOCRATS ON TOP.

We Crow To-day and Hope to Crow To-morrow.

It Looks as if New York, New Jersey, Indiana and the South Settled It

The Result Still in Doubt.

The election in Macon county passed off quietly and without disturbance as far as is known, although very few townships have been heard from. In the majority of those heard from last evening, democratic gains were reported, but hardly enough to change the usual republican majority. Perl is believed to be elected coroner on the democratic ticket, and the struggle between Buckingham and Vail is still in doubt. In this city the election awakened the deepest interest. As soon as the polls opened workers for both tickets were present and went into the contest with great earnestness. There was considerable swearing in of votes and challenging but throughout the day the best of feeling prevailed. No quarrels or fights were reported at any voting place. Returns from the five polling places in this city were hard to obtain last night on account of the immense vote polled and the time consumed in counting it. The judges did not get through until three o'clock and in the Fifth ward it was not possible to learn anything but the vote on the president. Below we give the returns from four voting places in this city and a number of townships in the county:

Illinois.

CHICAGO, November 4.—Presidential vote in Illinois will be compared with 1880, when Garfield carried the state by 40,716.

9 p. m. Thirty precincts outside Cook county give St. John 583; Butler 269; twenty-two precincts outside Cook county give Oglesby 3,764; Harrison 3,435.

Cook county gives Harrison 7,900 majority.

143 precincts outside Cook county shows net democratic gain 3,290; 70 precincts outside Cook county for Governor Oglesby 12,764; Harrison 12,511; Hobbs 473; Harper 79; 115 precincts in Illinois outside of Cook county gives St. John 1 424; Butler 814.

Sixty-three precincts in Cook county give Blaine 18 680; Cleveland 18,659. For governor 43 precincts give Harrison 13 482; Oglesby 10,283

172 precincts outside Cook county show net democratic gain 3 925

84 precincts in Chicago give Blaine 25,191; Cleveland 26,925.

New York.

NEW YORK, November 4.—Herald bulletin, at 6:45 p m, says both sides claim New Hampshire Indications: Cleveland's majority, 35,000 to 40 000. Sun Bulletin says Cleveland carried New York state.

Two hundred and twenty-three districts out of 712.—Blaine 32,479; Cleveland 40,673, Butler 1,034; St. John 302. Cleveland's majority in city between 40 000 and 45,000.

7:41 p. m. Sun says Cleveland carried state 30.000 to 40,000. Cleveland's majority in Kings county, 20,000. Blaine carried but one ward. New York Times bulletin 298 election districts, state; Cleveland majority 14 532

8:11 p. m. Herald says 380 districts give Cleveland 18 657 majority Present outlook gives him the state by 50.000.

11:05 p. m. 789 districts in N. Y. state outside New York and Brooklyn gives Blaine 189,701; Cleveland 158,654; Butler 5,092; St. John 10,303; net democratic gain 6,723.

Seven hundred and sixty-eight election districts in New York outside of Brooklyn gives Blaine 184,780; Cleveland 153,855; St. John 4,858; Butler 10,077. Democratic gain 6,212

Corrected returns from New York City show Cleveland's majority to be 53,083

8:59 p. m. Herald says Mueller, Viele, Cox, Adams, Pulitzer, Hewitt and Dowdney, all democrat, surely elected. Congress, 430 election districts out of 712 give Cleveland 76,161; Blaine 58 949: Butler 1,976; St. John 77.

3:15 a. m. 1 212 election districts in New York outside of New York and Brooklyn: Blaine 236 687; Cleveland 242,650; net democratic gain 10,049.

Michigan

DETROIT, November 4.—22 districts outside of cities, Blaine 2,854; Cleveland 1,979; Butler 1342; St. John 464, Alger, rep., for governor 2,439; Begole fusion 2,565; president on prohibition 449; net democratic gain 279.

New Jersey.

NEW YORK, November 4.—The Herald estimates Cleveland's majority in New Jersey at 7,000.

11 p. m. Herald says that Gov. Abbett claims New Jersey democratic by 5,000 majority.

Atlantic county gives Blaine a majority of about 450; democratic gain at 200.

Partial returns from 14 counties out of 21 in New Jersey give democratic majority of about 3,000

Connecticut.

NEW HAVEN, November 4.—Twenty-five towns give Blaine 5,734, Cleveland 5,154, scattering 384 Harrison 5,633, Waller 5,210, scattering 157. Representatives elected 23 republicans, 10 democrats.

11:00—One hundred and one towns net, including New Haven, Blaine 42,122; Cleveland 41,484; scattering 2,657. Harrison 42,143; Waller 41,770; scattering 2,033. Republicans elected 105; democrats 54. Cleveland's majority in New Haven said to be 2,500.

Indiana.

INDIANAPOLIS, November 4—Vote of state will be compared with that of 1882 for secretary state which gave democratic plurality 10,684 In 1882 there were 1 666 precincts at present there are 1,892.

10:55 p. m Thirty voting places show republican gain 223; democratic gain 303; net democratic gain 80.

Missouri.

ST. LOUIS, November 4.—Indications are that 14 dem. congressmen elected, are possibly doubtful. Marmaduke, dem., elected governor by usual majority.

Four wards give net democratic gain of 2,768.

Georgia.

ATLANTA, November 4.—Light vote. Many negro votes rejected; not registered. Estimated that Cleveland's majority is 40,000.

9:00 p. m. Entire democratic congressional ticket is elected.

Wisconsin.

MILWAUKEE, November 4.—Ray county elects entire democratic county ticket by about 1,200 majority.

Ohio.

COLUMBUS, Nov. 4.—State has gone republican by an increased majority over October election.

New Hampshire.

CONCORD, Nov. 3.—At 9:30 this evening the republicans claim the state for Blaine, and while admitting the vote for Carrier, dem., for governor, would be close that he would be elected, they also claim the election of both members of congress and the legislature, and four of the five executive councellors.

The Latest.

New York City and Brooklyn gives Cleveland 68,700. The remaining counties in the state give majorities for Blaine, but at this writing, 4 a. m., it does not appear that this can be overcome. New Jersey and Indiana are safely democratic, and also the south. Cook county gives Carter Harrison 7,900 majority. There will be a democratic congress.

KNOWLEDGE OF NOSES.

Meaning of the Different Forms—Big Noses of the Big-Brained.

[Mary O. Stanton in The Argonaut.]

Lavater, the eminent physiognomist, in one of his essays, says. 'I have never seen a nose with a broad back, whether arched or rectilinear, that did not appertain to an extraordinary man We may examine thousands of countenances and numbers of portraits of superior men before we find such a one."

The busts, pictures, and statues portraying the features and personality of the most celebrated generals, statesmen, orators, philosophers, scientists, and architects, which are exhibited in the art galleries of the world, reveal to us—if art can be relied on—that the faces of Galen, Hippocrates, Aristotle, Alexander, Cicero, Archimedes, Julius Cæsar, Demosthenes, Cato, Lucretius, Socrates, Plato, Josephus, and many other men of eminence, possessed unusually large noses, many of them "broad on the back," as Lavater expresses it, and not one exhibits an undeveloped or small nasal organ These noses vary in form, but can be classified at sight by one understanding the meaning of the forms of the nose All these men were master-minds in different departments of thought and action.

We will now return to more modern times, and recall to the mind the reader of the physiognomies of the more recent men of intellect—masters in art, science, government, literature, and leadership We shall find the field quite as rich as that of the ancients Let it be understood that each department of activity has a form or shape peculiar to itself Scientific, mechanical, and philosophical noses are long, prominent and bony, and where there is talent they are "broad on the back" as well. Musical noses are short, thick, round, soft and muscular Commercial noses are large, thick, long, with more muscle than bone, and of equal width the entire length, sometimes straight in outline and sometimes convex. Executive noses often presents a very high outline just below the the junction with the forehead. This nose is denominated the "Roman nose," and belongs to those who have naturally excellent ability as generals, leaders superintendents, etc.

The largest nose known to modern times are, among commanders, those of Washington, Garibaldi, Cromwell Wellington, Napoleon, Naper, Scott Sherman, and Farragut, among statesmen, Lord Chatham, William Pitt Lord Brougham, Jefferson, Jackson, Franklin Thomas Paine Metternich Palmerston, John Adams and Gladstone Observing the noses of poets, we find that these, as elsewhere, the largest belong to the most eminent Observe, for example, those of Dante, Tasso, Dryden, Cowper, Shelley, Goethe, Pope, Schiller, Joanna Baillie, Byron Tennyson, Longfellow and Whittier This class of noses exhibits a straight outline in the descent from the forehead to the tip, and this form is characteristic of most writers of elegant literature

Perhaps the most massive noses are found in the countenances of astronomers and philosophers Among astronomers note the following La Grange, De Lambre, Euler, Haller, Herschel and Proctor Philosophers and scientists lead the world in regard to size of nose

Old Sayings from a New Standpoint.

[Boston Transcript]

"A rolling stone gathers no moss"

Turn out that mind a rolling stone has been censured for gathering no moss But what of that? Is it not to its credit rather than to its disgrace? If it had lain idle all its life, it no doubt might have accumulated no end of moss But its busy existence prevented its acquiring any such useless environment True, the rolling stone gathers no moss but it gathers something better, to wit, polish Is it polish to be preferred to cumbersome and useless moss? Avast there!

'Out of the frying pan into the fire"

It is convenient to condemn the man who jumps out of the frying pan into the fire But gentle reader, were you in the midst of the fervent fat of a frying pan, would you not rather jump into the fire itself and have your anguish ended speedily and at once that to suffer the slow agony of being fried like a vulgar doughnut? Of course you would Then never again speak a word against the judgment of this unknown martyr to expediency

"Facts are stubborn things"

This may be true on general grounds, but we fancy that facts bearing on a political campaign are as pliant and yielding as boarding house butter We trust, therefore, that this severe characterization of facts in the abstract will give place to a more generous appreciation It is no nearer the truth to say that all facts are stubborn things than to affirm that all stubborn things are facts.

"Faint heart ne'er won fair lady"

This is a libel on the faint heart. The modest, diffident, bashful man—that is to say, the faint heart—is always first to be won by the fair sex, which is the true way of saying that he is the first to win the fair sex, for be it known, that it is the woman and not the man who wins in the game of hearts The man thinks he does, but he doesn't. It is true that the winnings are oftentimes hardly worth the taking, but be they good, bad or indifferent, the woman is the arbiter of man's matrimonial destiny every time, and the fainter the heart she assails, the easier her victory.

A Mercenary Parent.

[Texas Siftings.]

"Father, that young reporter you kicked out of the house last week wants me to share his lot," said a New York girl to her father, who was a man of sense and some means

"Nonsense," replied the flat-headed parent, "you tell that reporter to scoot, and you be polite to that gentleman who comes around to buy bottles and old clothes He makes more money in one day than three reporters do in a week"

"I know it, pa, but why are you so mercenary."

Amphibious.

They were discussing their natatorial capacity

'Swim? Dive? Why, I can remain under water twenty minutes at a time."

'Only twenty minutes Why, the other day I staid under water a whole hour. To be sure, it was because I fell into a doze and overslept myself, but still——" (The other liar faints)

More Than Delighted.

Daughter—What did the doctor say ails me?

Mother—He thinks you have a touch of hay fever

Daughter—Oh, isn't that delightfully fashionable! We must let those horrid Jones girls know of it right away"

A New Market.

[Philadelphia Call]

"American home-made pie" now appears on the bills of fare of London hotels. This opens a new market for American manufacturers of stomach bitters.

Russian koumiss is growing in favor as a specific for consumption. The koumiss establishments at Orenburg are crowded with patients.

THE ENGINEER'S STORY.

[W. Wilkins.]

We were driving the down express—
Will at the steam, I at the coal—
Over the valleys and villages!
Over the marshes and coppices!
Over the river, deep and broad!
Through the mountains! under the road!
Flying along! tearing along!
Thunderbolt engine, swift and strong,
Fifty tons she was, whole and sole!
I had been promoted to the express
I warrant you I was proud and gay.
It was the evening that ended May,
And the sky was a glory of tenderness.
We were thundering down to a midland town—
It makes no matter about the name—
For we never stopped there, or any where
For a dozen miles on either side.
So it's all the same—
Just there you slide
With your steam shut off, and your brakes in hand,
Down the steepest and longest grade in the land
At a pace that I promise you is grand.
We were just there with the express,
When I caught sight of a muslin dress
On the bank ahead, and as we past
You have no notion of how fast—
A girl shrank back from our baleful blast.

We were going a mile and a quarter a minute
With vans and carriages down the incline,
But I saw her face, and a sunshine in it,
I look'd in her eyes, and she looked in mine
As the train went by, like a shot from a mortar,
A rearing hell breath of dust and smoke,
And I mused for a minute and then awoke,
And she was behind us a mile and a quarter

* * * * * *

And I often saw her—that lady I mean
That I spoke of before She often stood
A top o' the bank, it was pretty high—
Say twenty feet, and back'd by a wood
She would pick the daisies out of the green,
To fling down at us as we went by
We had got to be friends, that girl and I,
Though I was a rugged, stalwart chap,
And she a lady! I'd lift my cap,
Evening by evening, when I'd spy
That she was there, in the summer air,
Watching the sun sink out of the sky

Oh, I didn't see her every night;
Bless you! no, just now and then,
And not at all for a twelvemonth quite
Then one evening I saw her again,
Alone, as ever but deadly pale
And down on the line, on the very rail,
While a light as of hell, from our wild wheels broke,
Tearing down the slope with their devilish clamors
And deafening din as of a giant's hammers
That smote in a whirlwind of dust and smoke
All the instant or so that we sped to meet her
Never, O never had she seemed sweeter!

I let yell the whistle, reversing the stroke
Down that awful incline and signal'd the guard
To put on the brake at once and HARD—
Tho' I knew we couldn't have stopped. We tried the rail
Into pieces and sparks but without avail
Our speed couldn't stop and she wouldn't stir,
Staring dumb in her eyes and stretch
Her arms to us, and the despairate wretch
I pitied, comprehending Let
So the brakes let off and the steam full again
Sprang down on the lady the terrible train—
She never flinched We beat her down,
And ran on through the lighted length of the town
Before we could stop to see what was done.

Oh, I've run over more than one!
Dozens of 'em to be sure, but none
That I pitied as I pitied her—
If I could have stopped, with all the spur
Of the steam's weight on and cannily—
But it wouldn't do with a lad like me
And she a lady—o, had been Sir!
Who was she? Best say no more of her.
The world is hard, but I'm her friend—
Staunch, sir—down to the world's end
It is a curl of her sunny hair
Set in this locket that I wear
I picked it off the big wheel there
Time's up Jack Stand clear, sir Yes;
We're going out with the express.

DIAMONDS FOR DRILLS.

The Apparatus by Which Deep Rock Boring Is Accomplished.

"Diamonds are comparatively cheap now days," a rock drill manufacturer said to a reporter, "and the diamond set bits used in the diamond drills do not cost as much as they did"

Are genuine diamonds used in these drills, or are they called diamond drills because the tool has an extremely hard temper?" the reporter asked

'Diamonds are used in the drills. They are chiefly one and two carat stones At present they cost about $20 a carat They are in the rough The diamond set is hollow It is a steel thimble, having three rows of diamonds imbedded in it, so that the edges of those in one row project from its face, while the edges of those in the other two rows project from the outer and inner peripheries respectively The diamonds of the first mentioned row cut the path of the drill in its forward progress, while those on the outer and inner periphery of the tool enlarge the cavity"

"Do the diamonds wear out?"

'Then edges which come in contact with the rock get a little smooth, and then they are taken out and reset, so that a fresh edge is presented'

"How are the diamond drills worked?"

"By a rapid rotation, varying anywhere from 400 to 1,000 revolutions a minute There are different machines used for different kinds of drilling For deep boring a machine with a double oscillating cylinder engine is used, mounted on an upright or horizontal tubular boiler. The machine has a screw shaft made of heavy hydraulic tubing from five to seven feet in length, with a deep screw cut in the outside The shaft also carries a spline, by which it is feathered to the lower sleeve gear This gear is double, and connects by its upper teeth with a beveled driving gear, and by its lower teeth with a release gear, which is a friction gear, and is fitted to the lower end of the feed shaft, to the top of which a gear is feathered, fitting to the upper gear on the screw shaft, which has one or more teeth less than the upper gear on the feed shaft whereby a differential feed is produced This friction gear is attached to the bottom of the feed shaft by a friction nut, producing a combined differential and frictional feed, which renders the drill perfectly sensitive to the character of the work through which it is passing, and maintaining a uniform pressure The drill rod, made of heavy lapweld tubing, passes through the screw-shaft and is held firm by a chuck at the bottom of the screw-shaft. To the lower end of this tubular boring rod the bit is screwed, and to the upper is a watch swivel, to which connection is made with a steam-pump You can see by this that the machine is very simple and not likely to get out of order"

What They Were Doing.

[Burlington Free Press]

"How beautiful those two old people look, sitting together at the fireside!" exclaimed a sentimental young lady "I wonder what they are talking about?" "Probably fighting their battles o'er again" replied her matter-of-fact companion.

Memphis is the largest inland cotton market in the world.

When rheumatism and neuralgia have so long held sway in the system, their victim is liable to become discouraged and give up the battle in which hopes, the greatest incentive for these frightful maladies, they have an invincible champion It attacks the tyrant in the seat of his power and drives the acrid substances from the blood bringing ease and comfort to the worried frame A. B. Norton, of Bristol, Conn., is one of very hundreds to testify to the efficacy of this invaluable medicine.

What's a Miracle

to some people is really only the result of the use of knowledge and common-sense. Many persons suffering from

RHEUMATISM and NEURALGIA

hesitate about taking a remedy fearing it will not help them, and they doubt whether it really did do as much for others as is claimed

This is not the way Mr. C. R. Bruner of Urbana, Ohio, did. He writes:

"ATHLOPHOROS is the best I ever tried. I was down in bed so bad that I had to be turned on a sheet and so I got a bottle of ATHLOPHOROS and began taking it at 9 o'clock, and I was suffering everything a man could suffer I took four doses of it and I got out of bed myself and ate my supper, and the next morning I walked out to breakfast without canes

IT IS WORTH ITS WEIGHT IN GOLD"

ATHLOPHOROS

Is not a miraculous thing, but it is the only sure cure for Rheumatism and Neuralgia, and it will cure just as easily and certainly, as it has thousands of others.

YOU

If you cannot get ATHLOPHOROS of your druggist, we will send it express paid, on receipt of regular price—one dollar per bottle We prefer that you buy it from your druggist, but if he hasn't it, do not be persuaded to try something else, but order at once from us, as directed.
